Corinthians To Initiate 10 New Members

Ten new members will be initiated in the Corinthians Society at a dinner meeting Thursday, Nov. 10, in the Student Center.

"The Society is the only upper class group on campus to recognize high scholastic achievement," said president Lowell Baumer.

Upper class men and women with cumulative averages of 3.5 or higher are accepted.

"Dr. Thomas Bonner, new sponsor of Corinthians, will also speak," Baumer said.

Dr. Bonner succeeds Dr. Robert D. Harper, the new dean of the liberal arts college.

Corinthians Society was established at the Honors Convocation in 1948 and received its name from the Corinthian columns on the front portico of the Administration Building.

First sponsor was Dr. Ralph M. Wardle, chairman of the English department. Dr. Wilfred Payne, professor of humanities, and William Utley, chairman of political science department, followed as consecutive sponsors. Dean Harper had been sponsor for the past four years.

Additional officers of Corinthians are Virginia Anderson, vice-president; Mrs. Jean Humberg, secretary, and Kathryn Sutton, treasurer.

Grade Reports Due for Frosh

Tests showing the six week grade average of freshmen are over and now freshmen have the opportunity of talking with their counselors to see how they have been doing.

Director of Academic Testing and Counseling, Dr. Gale Oleson, said that some freshmen have a hard time making the transition from high-school to college.

"These tests and meetings with counselors will give them some idea of what is expected of them by the University," he continued. "Along with helping the student who isn't doing too well, we like to compliment the students who are doing good work," said Dr. Oleson.

Dr. Oleson also pointed out that parents aren't called in to discuss the students' work because, "Students must stand in their own two feet and be ready to accept the responsibility of their actions."

Relief in Sight For OU Smokers

Campus smokers, frustrated in their drive for tidiness, have relief in sight.

Clarence Leffler, superintendent of buildings and grounds, said that today will see the first of 40 outdoor ashtrays placed in position.

Twelve of the colorful (black and red with a white OU monogram) will be set at strategic spots around the Administration Building.

Eventually each building will be graced by the concrete receptacles constructed from two-foot sections of flue tile.

Bootstrap Society Elects Officers

Pen and Sword Society elected Major Joe Fix as its new president last week. Maj. Fix's last duty station was Ft. Benning, Georgia.

Cutest Pan Contest Nets $865 for UCS Drive

Lambda Chi's Lyle McFarlin is OU's ugliest man and Mary Ellen Gundry, a Zeta, has the cutest pan.

The result of the Alpha Phi Omega Cutest Pan-Ugliest Man contest for the benefit of the United Community Service drive was announced late Wednesday afternoon by APO president John Vogt.

'Communications' Theme of Institute

The 13th annual House Magazine Institute was held yesterday in the Gene Eppley Conference Center.

The all-day institute was jointly sponsored by the Associated Nebraska Industrial Editors and the Department of Journalism at the University of Omaha.

The purpose of the institute is to help industrial editors extend their particular job of internal communication. The institute is also designed to make editors more aware of the changes in writing style and make-up of house organs.

Yesterday's schedule of meetings was highlighted by the luncheon address of Dan R. Forrestal on "Communications—the Big Key."

Mr. Forrestal is director of public relations for Monsanto Chemical Company in St. Louis. He was also past president for the Public Relations Society of America.

Psychiatrist 'With Humor' to Lecture

Dr. Murray Banks, guest on the Jack Paar show, columnist and author, will be a guest speaker this morning at 10:30 in the Administration Building auditorium.

Dr. Banks, who is referred to as the "psychiatrist with a sense of humor," is in Omaha to address the State Teachers' convention. He was invited to speak at OU for activity card holders by Dean of Student Personnel, Donald Pflasterer.

The lecture will be taken from Dr. Banks' best seller, "What to Do Until the Psychiatrist Comes."

Debate Squad Set After Warm-Up

Results of the Creighton-Omaha University warm-up debate have determined the participants from OU in the kick-off tournament Nov. 4-5 at OU.

Those who will participate in the 21-college tournament are: John Cady, Ron Bojanski, Jim Gammon, Rod Hanson, Bette Jafek, Al Henderson, Bill Stillmock and Max Voigt.

noon. Each penny donated to the candidates counted as one vote. Total for Miss Gundry was $282.98 and McFarlin netted $153.97 in votes.

Nearest competitors were Sigma Kappa's Carolyn Curry with $143.84 and TKE's Lynn Jeffreys with $33.04.

This year's total of $865.52 exceeds last year's total of $722.28 by $143.24.

Other candidates and the "votes" they received were: Pi Kappa Alpha, George Thomazin, $29.20; Sig Ep, Kendall Brink, $12.09; Independents, Gary Zaruba and Jeanne Hronik, $12.92; Theta Chi, Bill Childers, $6.09; Chi Omega, Carol Ehingen, $75.27; Alpha Xi Delta, Stella Sturges, $116.12.

Idzerda to Discuss 'Talented' Students

Dr. Stanley J. Idzerda of Michigan State University will be the main speaker at the History and Social Studies Conference Nov. 5.

He will speak on education of students with special talents and will discuss the Honors College at MSU.

Dr. Idzerda, director of the Honors College at MSU, received his BS degree from Notre Dame, his BA from Baldwin-Wallace and his MA and Ph.D. from Western Reserve. He has been at MSU for the past eight years.

He has published articles on French history, American literature and special education for the gifted student.

All history and social science teachers of high school level and above in the local area have been invited.

The College of Adult Education and the history department are the hosts for this year's conference which will commence at 8:30 a.m. in the Eppley Conference Center.

Democrats to Talk Of Issues Tonight

Democratic candidates for the office of governor, senator and US representative from Nebraska will speak at a Democratic rally tonight at 8 in room 110 of the Administration building.

Speakers at the rally will be Frank Morrison, candidate for Governor, Robert Conrad, candidate for the Senate, and Joseph Benesch, candidate for the House of Representatives.

Jerry Singer, Chairman of the OU Young Democrats, sponsor of the rally, said the meeting is open to the public in order that the people may meet the candidates and hear their stand on the issues.

Senior Exec Day Registration Near

Seniors with an eye toward future employment in Omaha have been asked to register for Senior Executive Day.

Their names must be submitted at the University check room on November 2 or 3 between 8 a. m. and 2:30 p. m.

The annual visitation to local businesses will be November 15. Participating seniors will be the guests of Omaha business firms dealing in the fields of service, manufacturing, transportation or communication.

Top executive of each firm will discuss the history, capital structure, personnel, markets and profit picture of his company.

These comprehensive firm tours are designed to help seniors to see free enterprise in Omaha in operation.

Seniors may select the industry they wish to visit from the following list of host firms: Carpenter Paper Company, Continental Can Company, Cudahy Packing Company, Farmers National Co., Federal Reserve Bank, Guarantee Mutual and Kilpatrick's.

Other participating firms are Mutual of Omaha, Northern Natural Gas Co., McKesson and Robbins, Omaha National Bank, Omaha Steel Works, Omaha World-Herald, Peter Pan Bakery, Paramount Paper Products Corp., Sheraton-Fontenelle Hotel, Skinner Manufacturing Co., and Safeway Stores.

Others are Stock Yards National Bank, Storz Brewing Co., Swift & Co., Union Pacific Railroad Co., Union Stock Yards Co., United Air Lines and Western Electric Co.

Participating students will be excused from classes, including student teaching.

Transportation from the Fieldhouse at 8 a. m. on Nov. 15 will be provided with return transportation at 3 p. m.

The Omaha Rotary Club is co-operating with the University in sponsoring this sixth annual "Senior Executive Day."

$2,443 In Bequest

Omaha U received $2,443 in the bequest of an ex-Omahan this week.

Charles Dettman died six or eight months ago in California, leaving the money to the University in his estate. Dettman moved from Omaha about 35 years ago. OU officials were stumped as to the benefactor's motives.

Harold Keefover, University controller, said the $2,443 will be used as a portion of the University's share of the National Defense Student Loan Fund. The 1960-61 obligation is $6,000.

Hurst Recovering After Gun Mishap

An instructor in the psychology department, Dr. Francis Hurst is resting in good condition at the Clarkson Hospital after suffering a shotgun blast in the face last weekend.

Hospital officials said that 38 pellets entered Dr. Hurst's face dislodging the retina of the left eye. This will not blind Dr. Hurst because the damage can be repaired.

A freshman Omaha University student, Nancy Fry, was critically wounded last week while she was cleaning a shotgun.

The pellets entered her chest and lodged in her heart muscles.

Kennedy or Nixon? Gateway Again Takes Count

Senator Kennedy edged the Vice President by a slim 69-67 vote in the last Gateway presidential preference poll. Can he increase the lead? Will Mr. Nixon reverse the tally?

This week you have another opportunity to air your selection. Mark the appropriate box and drop the ballot in the box at the information desk of the Student Center.

Results will be published in next week's Gateway.

Nixon Buttons and Apples Get Counted

By Ken Zimmerman

With election pundits and pollsters having taken over everyone else's headlines it was only natural that the Gateway follow suit.

Pencil and notebook in hand, I went in search of a broad cross-section of campus thinkers whose brains might be picked.

Cornering two coeds who had stalled in front of the apple counter in the Oumpli Room I fired my first question.

"Considering the gold boullion situation in Europe, what do you think of Senator Kennedy's fiscal plans?" I asked.

Judy S., a vibrant sophomore, scratched her head.

Betty J., a studious senior, reached for an apple.

"Well . . ." said Judy.

"Lousy crop of apples this year," said Betty.

The question was revised.

"Do you think issues or personalities will decide the outcome?"

Vibrant sophomore displayed her Nixon button and pointed out that the colors harmonized nicely with her sweater.

"They're all so small this year," noted studious senior, examining the fruit selection.

"Who's gonna win the election?" I asked.

Judy's expression turned to one of deep thought. Eyes closed, brow furled, finger to chin, she pondered.

"Which one's a Pi Kap," she inquired.

"I wonder if fall-out has any effect on the citrus crop," said apple muncher.

By this time a line had backed up. An inconsiderate brute in a letter-sweater demanded that we either move on or step aside and let the others pass.

I stepped aside.

At the hot chocolate dispenser stood an obvious intellectual.

"What do you consider the fundamental difference between the candidates?" was the question posed.

"I'm glad you asked that question," the fellow replied as I noticed the "Young Republican" badge on his lapel.

When I ran out of paper I excused myself and left him standing there arguing with a big guy in a letter-sweater who was mumbling something about taking an hour to get through the food line.

"Perhaps the wrong atmosphere," I said while leaving and heading for the library.

There my optimism rose. The place was fairly reeking with profound thinkers—good pool material.

Penelope Hopmeir was sitting with a tall stack of poly science books and said "certainly, she would be happy to answer a few questions."

Frankly, I couldn't tell who Penelope was for, Kennedy, Nixon, Able Lincoln or William Jennings Bryan.

She did, however, sound like she knew what she was talking about—even if I didn't.

She was kinda cute, though.

The time wasn't exactly wasted. Across the room a ruddy fellow sat manipulating a slide rule. He looked like the type who could give a clear, mathematical opinion of the candidates' chances.

"Who's going to win the election?" I asked, still glowing a bit from my interview with Penelope.

Without a word he bent over his slip-stick and began some rather detailed computations.

"Kennedy," he finally replied.

"Simply multiply the number of his bumper stickers in Omaha by the number of Nixon signs in the Student Center, divide by Larr Daily's age and . . ."

Oh, well, polls don't prove anything anyway.

Bootstrapper-Author of TV Westerns

By Paul "X" Derry

Johnny Ringo drew his gun and fired. The slovenly looking character with a five days growth of beard dropped in his tracks without even getting his hand to his holster.

Ringo had triumphed again as all Western heroes do. With the show ended, the list of credits come on the screen while the hero's theme song played in the background.

When the name of Dan Spelling came on the screen, a short dark haired man in Omaha smiled and turned off the television set.

Dan Spelling watched the second Johnny Ringo episode show he had written with the pride that most writers no doubt feel when they have begun selling their material.

Spelling, who has been writing TV scripts for two years, has been a bootstrapper at Omaha University since July and plans on receiving his General Education degree in January.

The Air Force Master Sergeant, a native of Dallas, Tex., is stationed in Colorado Springs, Colo., and will retire next year after 20 years service.

In the meantime he plans to continue writing for television and has written seven scripts to date. Spelling sold his third attempt at TV writing during his first year in the field.

Two Scripts Produced

Two of his creations were produced on Johnny Ringo, the other was purchased by the Zane Grey

Theatre but has not been produced as yet.

Spelling said he never had a desire to write until he saw some television material his brother had written. He received encouragement from his brother who works for a television producing firm and his sister-in-law who is a movie actress.

He read some of the television scripts his brother had written in his ten years in television and from these learned much about the mechanics of writing.

His first attempted sale was to the television networks but they informed him they only bought scripts from agents. He tried several agents but was told that they only read scripts belonging to their clients.

Following these defeats Spelling turned to his brother to get his foot in the door and some credits to his name.

The first script brought him "about $300" because he had "never sold anything before." His second effort sold for a little more than the first one but it required some rewriting. He had to share his fee with the person who did the rewriting.

Spelling admits he might not have broken into television without his brother's help.

Script Sold for $1400

However, his last sale attests to his ability as a writer. It sold for $1,400 and was used almost in its entirety.

Despite his modest success, Spelling is currently taking two courses at OU which he believes will help him in learning more about the mechanics of writing plays. They are Television Techniques and Stage Design.

But Spelling finds the mechanics of writing secondary. The hardest part about writing is getting ideas, he said. "What the TV stations are buying more than anything else is ideas," he said.

"Even if the writing is not very good, a station will often pay a good price just to get the idea. If the idea is new and different than the writer has a good chance to make a sale."

The best field in writing for television is with a series type show. "If you can sell a network a series than you can really make out," he said, "even if it only runs for a year."

Easier to Write Non-Westerns

Spelling is currently working on an idea for a series show. And it's not a Western. He finds it's easier to write a non-western show because, "what can you find to say in a Western that hasn't already been said?"

When he retires Spelling plans to devote his full time to writing. "If you can devote full time to writing you're better off," Spelling said, "because it's important that a writer spend his time writing."

Spelling said he has found that if a writer does this he will get ideas and these in turn will beget other ideas and so on.

The 39-year-old student said he enjoys writing, but admits he also likes the monetary rewards obtainable from it.

O Club Open To Lettermen

By Sharon Johnson

An "O" Club meeting will be held Monday at 1:30 in room 302 in the Student Center. All "O" Club members are urged to attend!

The "O" Club, campus lettermen's organization, is open to all athletes who letter in any inter-collegiate sport.

"O" Club sponsors an all school dance, The Stardust Fantasy, in the fall. An "O" Club Sweater Girl is selected at the dance.

In the spring a formal dinner dance is held. At this time "O" Club states its objective of promotion of athletics here and throughout the city by inviting the top athletes from the city's high schools and their dates to the dance.

The organization also makes the Maie Day Princesses float and presents the Homecoming Princess at the football game.

"O" Club awards first year members with a slipover sweater and second year members with a jacket. A cardigan sweater is the third year ward. In the fourth year a blanket plus a lifetime pass to all OU games is presented.

Dr. Francis Hurst and Coach Al Caniglia are the "O" Club sponsors.

Initiation will be held later in the semester for those men who lettered in baseball, wrestling, track, golf and tennis last spring.

Steeple of church are now being made of nickel stainless steel because of its strength and durability, and the fact that virtually no maintenance is required.

Zeke Moe Joes Lead Intramurals

Football
Sig Eps became the inter-fraternity football champions by downing Theta Chi, 12-6, in a sudden death overtime, Oct. 28. They finished the season with a 3-0 record.

Zeke Moe Joes are still the leaders in the overall intramural standings having played one more game than the Sig Eps.

Sig Eps play the Eagles at 3:30 tonight to decide the flag football champs. A win would put Sig Eps in a playoff with Zeke Moe Joes for the championship.

If a playoff game is necessary, it will be played Tuesday, November 1, at 4 p. m.

In grid action since last issue Sig Eps beat Theta Chi 12-6 and Casey's Crew, 7-0. Pi Kaps bumped ISA 21-7 and Zeke Moe Joes dumped the Eagles, 25-7.

Bowling

In bowling action, Lambda Chi took three points from Theta Chi to move into an undisputed first place October 19.

In the intrafraternity standings Theta Chi is leading in total pins over the Pi Kaps. Both teams have fourteen points each.

High individual game and series were both taken by Keith

Payne of the P.E. Majors. He rolled an outstanding 234 game, highest of the season thus far, and a 602 series, another season high.

High team series went to the P.E. Majors who posted 2038 pins. Pi Kaps had the high team game with 700 pins downed.

Intramural Standings
	Total Pins	Points
Lambda Chi	7561	14
Pi Kaps	6967	13

11-12—Sig Ep vs. Iota Delta

All entries for the four-mile team relay race must be entered in the intramural office by this coming Monday, Oct. 31. The race will be run Thursday, Nov. 3, at 4 p. m. on the University track.

Basketball teams should be entered in Mr. Kurth's office by next Friday, Nov. 4. The season will get started sometime around the middle of November.

Omaha Takes Second Place

St. Benedicts moved a step closer to its second straight CIC title as it romped easily past Washburn, 37-14. The Ravens meet OU this week in a battle for first.

With an Omaha victory, it is possible that four teams would be tied for the lead. Pittsburg hosts Washburn and Ft. Hayes battles at Emporia. OU won its first game of the season last week over Emporia while Pittsburg blasted Ft. Hayes 44-7 in other league action.

CIC Standings
St. Benedicts	2	0	0
OMAHA U	1	1	0
Pittsburg	1	1	0
Ft. Hayes	1	1	0
Emporia	1	1	0

Pen and Sword Presents Flag

One of the highlights of Homecoming was a presentation of a new fifty-star flag to OU by the Pen and Sword Society.

Lt. Col. Jack Ross, Capt. Roy Gudmundson and Capt. Young Moore escorted the colors on the field. Maj. Joe Fix presented the flag to President Milo Ball who in turn handed the flag to an ROTC escort. The ROTC escort raised the flag with appropriate music.

President Ball's acceptance speech and Major Fix's presentation speech were lost to the vagrant breezes when the loudspeaker failed just prior to the presentation.

OU Swats Hornets; Face Ravens Next

Homecoming spirit seemed to be the spark that ignited Omaha University to a 7-0 win over Emporia State Saturday. This was the Indians first home win in 11 tries and the first Homecoming win in three years.

The Indian defensive unit, playing heads-up ball, kept the Hornets at bay all afternoon. Emporia, never threatening seriously, could only get as close as the OU 30-yard line.

2,000 Watch

The Homecoming crowd of 2,000 watched as Dave Gibson ended a 74-yard drive by scoring from one yard out. Gibson, demoted to second string before Saturday's contest, came back to spark this Indian attack.

Penalties again hampered the Indians as they had a long touch-down pass from Darnell Mallory to Jim Kettle called back.

St. Benedicts Next

The Omahan's, moving to this week's encounter with St. Benedict's College of Atchison, Kans., now have a 1-1 Central Intercollegiate Conference record. They are tied with three other clubs for second place. Benedict's tops the CIC list with two wins, no defeats. The wins over Pittsburg and Washburn have been by decisive margins 41-19 and 37-14.

Along with the strong attack, St. Benedict's boasts a three-year letterman in end Larry Muff. Muff, from Crete, Nebraska, has been drafted by Minneapolis, a new pro football franchise.

New Offense

Head Coach Al Caniglia will install a new series of offensive plays for the Benedict's contest tomorrow.

An Omaha upset over St. Benedict's would move them into first place in the CIC. A loss could possibly drop them into last place pending the outcome of Washburn's game with Pittsburg.

St. Benedict's has a string of 16 straight victories in CIC play. The Ravens posted a 21-12 win over OU in last year's contest.

Field Hockey Trip Scheduled Nov. 5

Women interested in field hockey are invited to make a trip to the University of Nebraska in Lincoln for a day-long program including instruction and contests on Saturday, Nov. 5.

A luncheon will be served at a cost of $1.50.

In preparation for the contests, those wishing to practice before the trip may come to the women's PE hut on Monday, Wednesday or Friday at either 9:30 or 10:30 a.m. or on Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

All women planning to attend the program in Lincoln should sign up in the PE hut. In case of rain, the trip will still be made but the program will consist of volley ball techniques.

Club Is Formed By Sophomores

With arrows piercing the bulls-eye in the center of the target from as far as 30 yards away, the sophomore archery class has formed a Bulls-eye Club for those scoring ten points in a session.

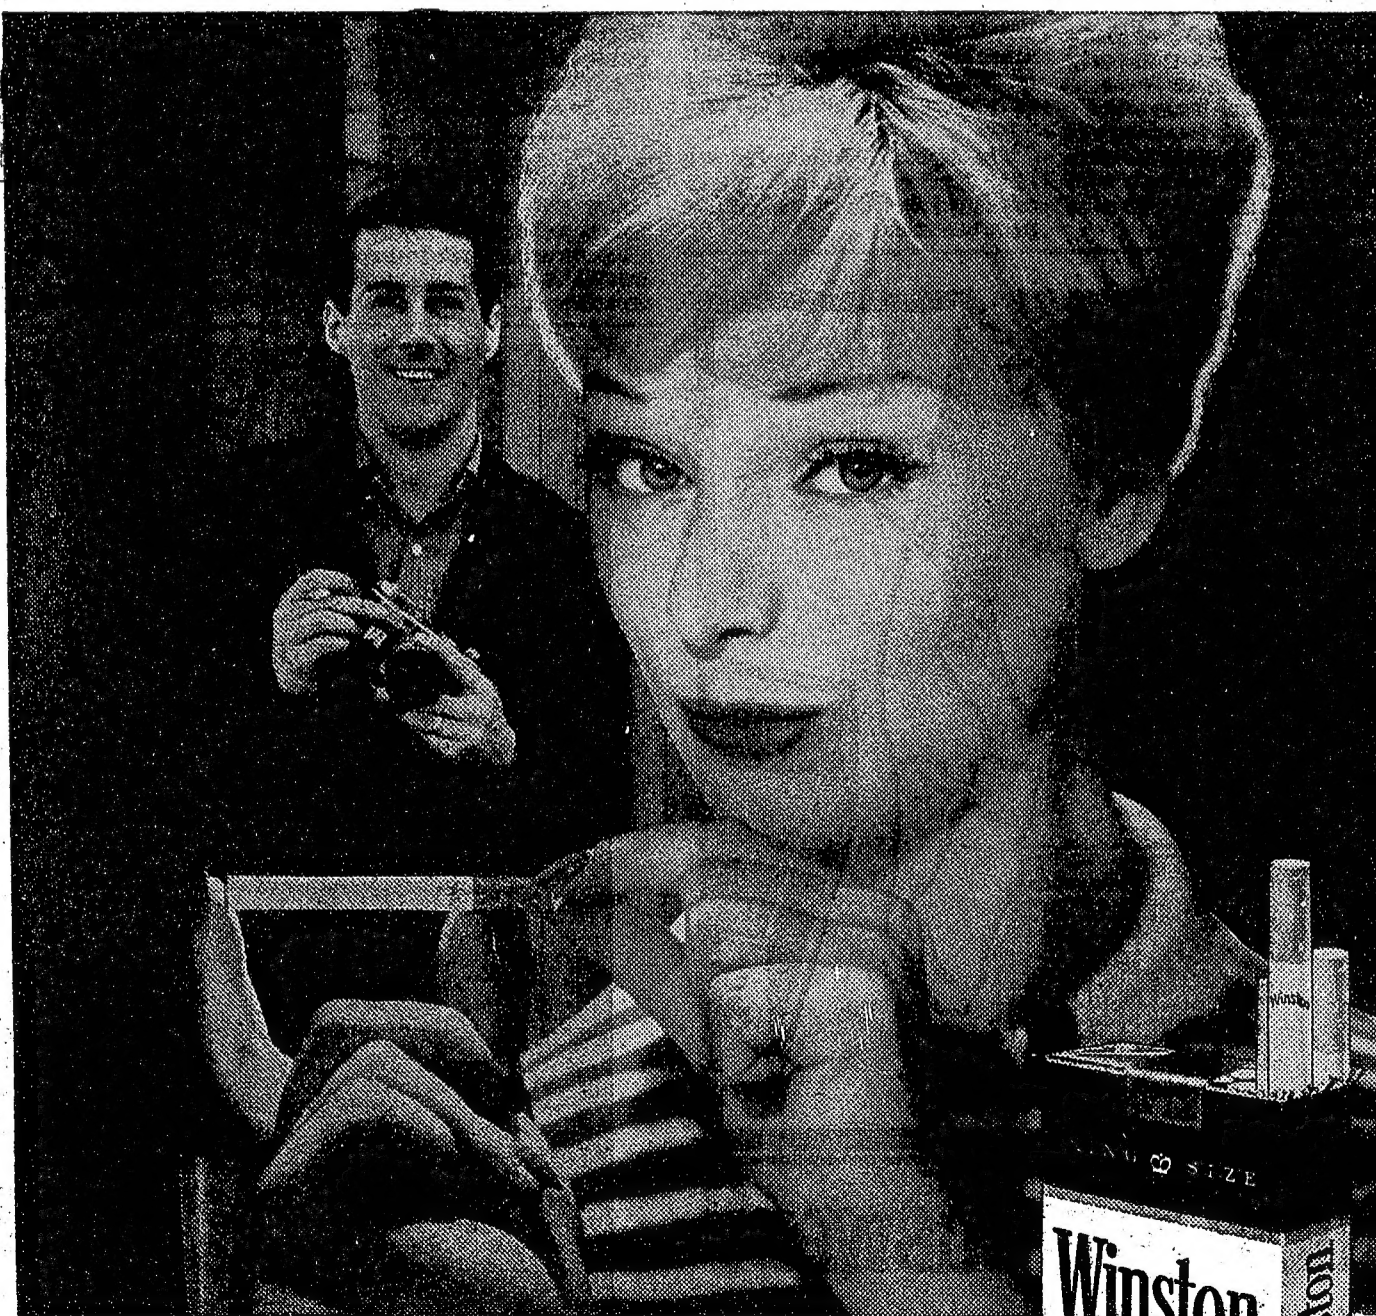

Each time a bowman scores ten points, a mark is added beside her name which is displayed on the PE hut bulletin board. With 21 members in the club at the present time, Diane Barker heads the list with 25 marks.

Dru Inman is a close second with 24. Others near the top are Margie Kunkel with 18, Kathy McLennon with 17, Judy Bates with 16 and Marjorie Dohse with 15.

If weather permits, the class will begin shooting from 40 yards next week.

Buy Tickets Today!

Students going to migration are urged to buy game tickets here for 75 cents at the Athletic Ticket Box. If the tickets are not purchased here, it will cost $1.25 in Kansas. Last day to sign up for the bus and to buy tickets is Friday by 4 p. m.

Homecoming Princess Garvin Named at Torch Ceremony

Bobbi Garvin was elected Homecoming Princess last week and reigned over the winning game with Emporia State.

She had previously been elected by members of her class as class secretary during her freshman and sophomore years.

Miss Garvin represented the Chi Omegas in the election which she won over three other candidates, Susan Ewing of Alpha Xi Delta, Carol Sue Child of Sigma Kappa and Wanette Bush of Zeta Tau Alpha were also candidates for the title.

The 20-year-old senior received her title and Indian attire at last Friday's torch ceremony which she said was the most exciting moment during the two-day celebration.

Miss Garvin is a past member of the Marching Angels and the Spanish Club. Most of her time is now spent working on a teacher's certificate as a speech and Spanish major.

As Princess, Miss Garvin received a bouquet of roses from the University, presented by Dr. Milo Bail, mums from her sorority sisters, cultured pearl necklace and earrings from the Alumni Association, copper necklace and earrings from the Student Council and a football from the "O" Club.

Now that the 1960 Homecoming is but a memory, said the Princess, "It was a very great honor and I appreciate all the support that was given me."

Halloween Parties Slated for Greeks

Al Capone's gang and the "Great Pumpkin" will be out in full force this weekend.

Zeta Tau Alpha and Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternities will shine in the shadow of the roaring 20s. Saturday night's exchange party will revive the Capone spirit by gambling at authentic gambling tables.

The "Great Pumpkin" will dominate the scene at the Chi Omega-Theta Chi exchange party Saturday night. This group will be costumed in traditional Halloween dress. A scavenger hunt will scatter the witches and goblins throughout the Miller Park area. The Chi Omega's traditional Theta Chi knight will be dubbed sometime during the evening.

The Alpha Xi Delta and Sigma Phi Epsilon exchange party scheduled for Saturday night has been cancelled.

Women's Society Holds Tea Oct. 30

Members of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's scholastic honorary, will be hostesses for the annual Fall Tea welcoming freshman women of high scholastic potential to OU.

The tea, to be held Oct. 30 from 3 to 5 p. m. at the residence of Dean Elizabeth Hill, will entertain over 60 freshmen women.

Officers of Alpha Lambda Delta are Mary Poulson, president; Beth Nelson, vice president; Alice Kürz, secretary; Susan Sipherd, treasurer, and Nancy Lindell, historian.

Canterbury Delegates Attend Conference

Eight members of the Omaha University Canterbury Club will be attending a Student-Faculty Conference in Kearney today and Saturday.

Those attending the conference are Thomas Winslow, Stan Wells, James Robbins, Marge Wilson, Karen Kinsey, Betsy Dayton, Claudia Parkerson and Dr. W. C. Lambert.

The Canterbury Club meeting scheduled for Sunday has been cancelled.

Pre-Orchesis Adds Ten New Members

Pre-Orchesis, a modern dance group which prepares girls for Orchesis, has started its work for the 1960-61 school year. The meetings are held every Thursday from 5-6:30 p. m.

X-Ray Men Wanted

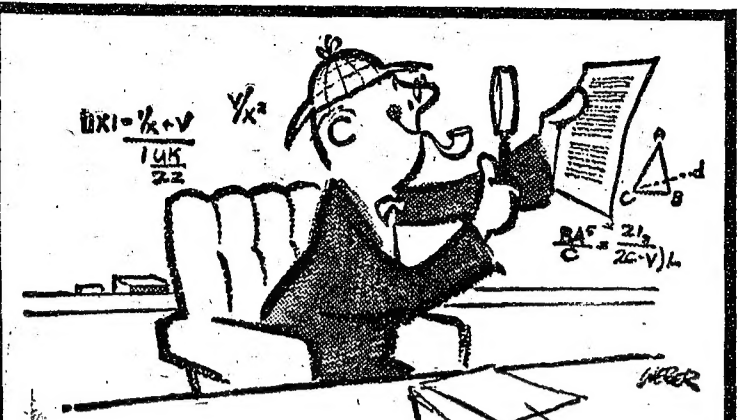

Any OU students who have had experience as X-Ray technicians are requested to contact John G. McMillan of the physics department.

SEA Meets Nov. 2

The Student Education Association, an organization comprised of students studying to be teachers, will hold its monthly meeting Nov. 2 in room 313 of the Student Center at 3:30 p. m.

Student Picnic Sunday

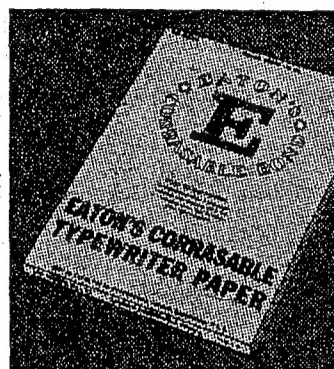

The Methodist Student Movement has planned a "get-acquainted" picnic for Sunday at the home of Dr. Benjamin Schwartz. The picnic will begin at 3 p. m.
